

I'm not flying anymore, for ecological reasons!

• If the 8.854 millions researchers worldwide (source: Unesco) would take every year an oversee flight – for instance a round trip between Paris and New-York corresponding to 2 tons of CO<sub>2</sub> equivalent per passenger – then the whole community would be responsible for 17.7 Mt/year, ranked 90 if it was a country (source : Wikipedia) ! We have collectively to change our habits to insure a sustainable future, with 2 t/year/person as advised by the Paris Agreement.

I'm travelling by train

• I like train travels (about 80 times less polluting than a plane), even quite long if I have the possibility to get an overnight step.

I'm taking my time

• I do not want to go everywhere as fast as possible to get more lines on my CV. I would be happy to visit you for several days, discovering your institute/lab and start an interesting discussion with very few time constraint.

I can perform an online presentation

• Even though this is not optimal, it stays an ecological ways – with about 30g per hour of emission – to present my works, answering questions, discussing with the audience, clarifying points, etc. Do not hesitate to ask me for that !
